WANT A NEW PARTY

Janesville Delegates at the Big Ohio Conference.

IMPORTANT ACTION AT CINCINNATI.

The Conference Forms "The People's Party of the United States"—It Will Have a Candidate for President—The Platform.

Aaron Broughton, James Cleland and Rev. D. B. Grover represented Rock county Patrons of Industry at the big independent conference in Cincinnati. They are expected to turn to-morrow, and their report of the action of the meeting will be awaited with great interest by Rock county farmers. Dispatches from Cincinnati announce the result to be the certainty that Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Blaine, or whoever may bear the standards in 1892, will have to fight against a candidate representing the industrial organizations of the country. Who this candidate will be cannot be guessed at, but it is understood that Senator Peffer, Congressman Simpson, Gen. Weaver and Ignatius Donnelly all have lightning rods on their houses.

"(a) The right to make and issue money is a sovereign power to be maintained by the people for the common benefit, hence we demand the abolition of national banks as banks of issue, and as a substitute for national bank notes we demand that legal tender treasury notes be issued in sufficient volume to transact the business of the country on a cash basis, without damage or special advantage to any class or calling, such notes to be legal tender payment of all debts, public and private, and such notes, when demanded by the people, shall be loaned to them at not more than 2 per cent. per annum upon the principal sum advanced, and that all lands held by railroads and other corporations in excess of such as is actually used and needed by them be reclaimed by the government and held for actual settlers only.

"(b) We demand the free and unlimited coinage of silver.

"(c) We demand the passage of laws prohibiting alien ownership of land, and that Congress take prompt action to devise some plan to obtain all lands now owned by alien and foreign syndicates and that all lands held by railroads and other corporations in excess of such as is actually used and needed by them be reclaimed by the government and held for actual settlers only.

"(d) Believing in the doctrine of equal rights to all and special privilege to none, we demand that taxation—national, state or municipal—shall not be used to build up one interest or class at the expense of another.

"(e) We demand that all revenues—national, state or county—shall be devoted to the necessary expenses of the government economically and honestly administered.

"(f) We demand a just and equitable system of graduated taxes, and that the national convention not later than June 1, 1892, for the purpose of nominating candidates for president and vice president, ABOUT GERRYMANDER.

La Crosse county fared no better than Rock county in the apportionment, except that it is not denied local representation. One of the local papers, the Mondovian Herald, touches up the gerrymander in the following terse style:
"Here is a sample of the democratic gerrymander. And it is not the worst specimen in the state by any means: La Crosse county has a population of about 34,000. It would be entitled to one senator and two assemblymen, but in order to serve the party interests Dr. Anderson made one assembly district of the county. Had he made two assembly districts of the county one would have been republican and one democratic. As it is now the democrats expect to elect both senator and assemblyman. La Crosse county with 34,000 inhabitants, as assembly district and the Third ward of Milwaukee with about 7,000 inhabitants, another—both formed to serve the democratic gerrymander. And this doctrine by the party that professed great veneration for the constitution and political honesty."

MORE FACTORIES STARTED.

News comes from Newark, New Jersey, that no less than twenty-three pearl button factories have been roused into activity by the McKinley tariff act. This must be strange news in the ears of those who have said there is not a pearl button factory in the United States. And more, the wages of those who have been working in the factories have been raised from 40 to 90 per cent.
The dispatch says: "Several years ago there were about twenty-three factories in Newark making pearl buttons alone. A change in the tariff on pearl buttons had a disastrous effect on the industry. Nearly all the factories closed. * * * In seven months after the McKinley bill went into operation the trade is almost restored."

IT WAS ALL BECOMING.

No one will accuse Fred Horn of being anything but a steady fast democrat. The captain has earned the right to speak for his party and, especial weight attaches therefore to this remark of his on the treasury matter: "The News has never believed that anything would ever come out of these suits; and believes that to good a lawyer as O'Connor never would have commenced the suits if he had not been goaded into it by the opposition. We considered this a good election story at the time we heard O'Connor say so at this place in a speech before election; we examined the law at once, but were careful not to spoil a good election story after satisfying ourselves that not a cent could ever be recovered by any written law."

WHY NOT TRY TAR?

Jennie Bradshaw, a pretty little girl, not yet fifteen years old, of a highly respectable family, mysteriously disappeared from Eau Claire two weeks ago. At the same time the police noted the absence of May Templeton, a notorious woman. It was believed that the child had been kidnapped, and an investigation showed that she was in Minneapolis in company with the notorious Templeton woman. Both were arrested, and the Eau Claire sheriff has brought the girl back to Wisconsin with him. Something more effective than a jail sentence is needed, evidently, to deter women of the Templeton stripe.

The Detroit Free Press wants the address of some "fool killer." At Muskegon, Michigan, a few days ago, the city voted on accepting a free gift from a citizen of $75,000 for school purposes, and four votes were cast against it.

A druggist in Nebraska has been convicted of manslaughter for giving a girl corrosive sublimate in place of calomel. The usual verdict in such cases has been "not guilty, but don't do it again."

There is method in the czar's infamy. His officers, while driving out the Jews, or contributing to it, so obstruct the sale of their property as to compel it largely to be left to be confiscated.
In Chili no definite count is had of the killing in the fights. In a recent belligerent event the piles about the field indicated 500 or 600 killed. The loss to the community, however, was light.

Why not man the United States men-of-war with newspaper correspondents? The correspondents have sunk the Itata several times.

MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

Vocalists of Illinois Begin a Series of Concerts at Decatur.
Decatur, Ill., May 21.—The triennial May musical festival under the auspices of the Woman's club began Wednesday night at the Grand opera house, directed by Prof. S. M. Lutz. During the last winter vocalists in Decatur, Bloomington, Monticello, Shelbyville, Mattoon, Paris, Blue Mound, Champagne, Moweaqua, and other points have been rehearsing for the great event, and Wednesday night over 400 singers filled the stage and fairly electrified the great audience with the grandest music ever heard in Decatur. The accompaniment is an orchestra of thirty pieces, including piano and organ. Mrs. Geneva J. Bishop, of Chicago, soprano; George E. Holmes, Chicago, basso, and Charles Humphrey, St. Louis, tenor, are the principals. Charles Ewing delivered the welcome address, to which Rev. H. M. Brooks, of Paris, responded. There are five concerts to be given for which nearly all seats are sold. The leading choruses for the week are: "O, Father Almighty," "Jubilate," "The Lord's Great," "Evening Song," "Morning is Breaking," "The Forty-sixth Psalm," "Spring Song" and "Now Trump O'er Moss and Fell."

MICHIGAN.

The Legislature Creates the New County of Dickinson—Other Proceedings.
LANSING, Mich., May 21.—The hardest-fought bill of the session, the measure creating the new county of Dickinson out of territory taken from Iron, Ontonagon, and Mackinac counties, passed the senate Wednesday afternoon. The bill was a party measure to do honor to Don M. Dickinson, and has passed the house and senate by a strict party vote. Iron Mountain will be the county seat. The senate also passed the house bill appropriating $30,000 for the national G. A. R. encampment. It is believed Gov. Winans will veto the appropriation. The house in committee of the whole passed the new charter for the city of Niles and killed the bill creating a state medical examining board. The senate put in the whole forenoon over the fish commission appropriation bill and finally passed it at $74,000, striking out the item of $8,800 for a new hatchery at Sault Ste. Marie.

Last April she was taken down with measles, followed with a dreadful cough and turned into a fever. JAPAN'S PARLIAMENT.

At Last Accounts the Government Was Having a Stormy Time in the House.
The Japanese parliament or diet, as it seems to be officially called, has sat for nearly five months, and the chief characteristics of the proceedings of the lower house so far are a marked hostility to the government and a marvelous facility for raising delicate points of constitutional law and practice, the discussions on which are usually carried on with great heat to a resolution of the house, which the government either refuses wholly to accept or accepts only after some difficulty. But when the last mail left matters had a deadlock reached what appeared to be a deadlock in regard to two important topics.

By the constitution delegates of the government can appear at any time in either house and explain government measures. They are also liable to be questioned by the members. This practice has led to frequent squabbles, delegates refusing to answer particular questions, the house calling for new delegates and the government supporting their delegates. The first serious difference between the house and the government took place on this question, and now it has been raised again in another shape. A prolonged debate on the budget having been concluded by the closure, just as the division on the main question was about to be taken, the delegate from the foreign office claimed the right to speak, as delegates could speak at any time.

There were violent objections to a delegate speaking when he could not be answered, and the house voted against hearing him. The following day the prime minister himself appeared in the tribune, and declared that the refusal to hear the delegate was unconstitutional, and that if the house objected to the rights given to government delegates the proper course was to make a representation on the subject, and, if necessary, have that provision of the constitution amended. The house appeared disinclined to take this view, but the delegate withdrew, observing that, as the prime minister had said all he wanted to say, he need not stay.

The second topic is much more serious. The committee on the budget had cut down the estimates in the most extraordinary way; offices are abolished (including legations abroad), the staff of departments are reduced to a mere fraction of their number, sub-departments and bureaus are swept away altogether, and the salaries of the officials remaining, beginning with the prime minister himself, are reduced sometimes to a third of the present amounts. The sixty-seventh article of the constitution provides that a large portion of the expenditure, classed as "fixed expenditures," shall not be reduced by the diet without the concurrence of the government, and an ordinance was passed defining these fixed expenditures.

The lower house, however, has resolved that this ordinance is ultra vires, and has interpreted this clause of the constitution for itself in a sense wholly opposed to that of the government, and in such a way as largely to reduce the items of expenditure, with which it has no power to deal without the concurrence of the latter. Both the prime minister and the minister of finance delivered a vigorous address to the house on the unconstitutional nature of its proceedings, and the minister of finance declared that the government would, if the house persisted in its course, announce its dissent and take other measures provided by the constitution. The situation is regarded by the native press as one of great gravity, but there appeared at the time the mail left to be no prospect of the house altering its position. The house of peers had not yet come to the consideration of the matter.—London Times.

Portuguese Workmen.

Among Portuguese workmen—and I now allude to those who had learned a handicraft—there is what I may style, without exaggeration, a national way of the perception of accuracy. There is an unfortunate expression "a little more or less," and this is in constant use, verbally and practically. A door may gaze at the top or bottom, window may invariably rattle in their casings, but you will never persuade the carpenter that his work is badly done; he will acknowledge the existence of what are pointed out as defects, and answer, "That's no harm—what does it matter?"

From the same cause, straight or parallel lines and right angles, the careful carrying out of which makes all the difference in the finished look of work, are also "a little more or less," and the vagaries of a furrow in any plowed field must be seen to be appreciated. The actual supply of first rate workmen is practically nil, and the artisan is not only unequal to the production of excellence in his special line, but, what is worse, does not possess the moral faculty of judging and enjoying the sight of perfect specimens of workmanship. Stonecutting seems to have been for centuries an art in which the Portuguese have excelled. This and silversmith's work are the two crafts which may be exempt from the sweeping condemnation passed on the artisan of the present day.—Blackwood's Magazine.

Jack the Evangelist.

[As related by Straw Grew, Historian.]
I was on the drive, in eighty, Workin' under Silver Jack, Which the same is now in Jackson, And ain't soon expected back; And there was a chap among us By the name of Robert Waite, Kind o' cute and kind o' tonguy— Guess he was a graduate.
He could gab on any subject, From the Bible down to Hoyle, And his words flowed out so easy, Just as smooth, and slick as oil. He was what they called a skeptic, And he loved to sit and weave Hifalutin' words together. Telling 'what he didn't believe.
One day, while we were waitin' For a load to clear the ground, We all sat smokin' nigger head, And hearin' Bob expound. Hell, he said, was humbug, And he showed as clear as day That the Bible was a fable, And we loved it looked that way.

Miracles and such like Was too thin for him to stand, As for him they call the Saviour, He was just a common man. "You're a liar," some one shouted, "And you've got to take it back," Then everybody started. 'Twas the voice of Silver Jack.

And he cracked his fists together, And he shook his coat and cried, "It was by that that religion That my mother lived and died; And although I haven't allus Used the Lord exactly right, When I hear a chump abuse him He must eat his words or fight."

Now this Bob he wasn't no coward, And he answered bold and free: "Stack your duds and cut your capers, For there ain't no flies on me." And they fought for forty minutes, And the lads would hoot and cheer While Jack kept up a lather or two Or Bobby lost an ear.

Till at last Jack got Bob under, And slugged 'im once or twice; At which Bob confessed, almighty quick The divinity of Christ; And Jack kept reasonin' with him Till the cuss began to yell, And 'lowed he'd been mistaken In his views concernin' hell.

So the fierce discussion ended, And they riz up from the ground, And some one brought a bottle out, And kindly passed it round; And we drank to Jack's religion, In a quiet sort of way, And the spread of infidelity Was checked for that day. —Carson (Nev.) Appeal.

Two.

How does a woman love? Once, no more, Though life forever its loss deplores; Deep in sorrow or deep in sin, One king reigneth her heart within. One alone, by night and day, Moves her spirit to curse or pray. One voice only can call her soul Back from the grasp of death's control; Though loves best her, or friends desire, Yea, when she smiteth another's brie, Still for her master her life makes moan, Once is forever, and once alone.

How does a man love? Once for all. The sweetest voices of life may call, Sorrow daunt him, or death dismay, Joy's red roses bedeck his way; Fortune smile, or jest, or frown, The cruel thumb of the world turn down, Loss betray him, or love delight, Through storm or sunshine, by day or night, Wandering, toiling, asleep, awake, Though souls may madden or weak hearts break, Better than wife, or child, or self, Once and forever, he loves—himself. —Rose Terry Cooke.

Caprice at Home.

No, I will not say goodbye— Not goodbye, nor anything. He is gone. . . . I wonder why Lilies are not sweet this spring? How that thine bird will sing!

I might follow him and say Just that he forgot to kiss Baby, when he went away. Everything I want I miss. Oh, a precious world is this!

What if I might come and not be? Something might mislead his feet. Does the moon rise late? Ah, me! There are things that he might meet. Now the rain begins to beat.

So it will be dark. The bell? Some one some one loves is dead: Were it he— I cannot tell. How the fretful tears I shed, Half the fretful tears I shed.

Dead? And but to think of death: Men might bring him through the gate: Lips that have not any breath, Eyes that stare and I must wait! Is it time, or is it late?

I was wrong, and wrong, and wrong: I will tell him, oh, be sure! If the heavens are builded strong, Love shall therein be secure. Love like mine shall there endure.

Listen, listen—that is he! I'll not speak to him, I say, If he chose to say to me, "I was all to blame today; Sweet, forgive me," why I may! —Mrs. S. M. B. Platt.

Rhymes of a New Boy.

Indeed, my boy, I'd give a full, nay, overflow, ing purse, If you would seem to love your pa one-tenth as much as nurse.

You may never set the world on fire, Nor manage men as you do toys. You certainly are the devil's fire, That in the world you'll make a noise.

I had a poem written for This place—'twas full of wit— But seek it not forevermore. The boy has swallowed it.

At first I thought you rather pink; Next white; but now, young fellow, If one may judge by ear, I think You're verging on the yellow. —Harper's Bazar.

Nobility.

True worth is in being, not seeming— In doing, each day that goes by: Some little good, not in dreaming Of great things to do by and by.

For whatever men say in their blindness, And spite of the fancies of youth, There is nothing so kingly as kindness, And nothing so royal as truth. —Alice Cary.

MOXIE — HALF A DAY OF NEW AND VIGOROUS LIFE IN EVERY BOTTLE. — A harmless, simple food that supercedes the use of stimulants and nervines, recovers nervousness and mental exhaustion and effects of dissipation at once. In 1882, while hunting for health in South America, LIZETTE ANST MOXIE found the people using what they call FOOD PLANT as we do greens. Surprised at its effect on his own nervous system, he shipped a bale to Dr. Thompson, a friend of his, and he sent it to him. "It gives me a solid, durable strength and very good appetite." It cured anything caused by nervous exhaustion. It restored nervous people who were tired out mentally and physically, stopped the appetite for intoxicants, cured insanity, blindness from overtaxing the sight, paralysis, headache, loss of manhood from excesses, made people that stand twice their amount of work, mentally and physically, with less fatigue. It was found to be neither a stimulant nor a sedative, but a nerve food as harmless as milk. "Women say: 'My nervousness and exhaustion went like magic.' For sale everywhere. ALSO SYRUP BY THE GALLON FOR SODA FOUNTAINS."

LAID WASTE BY WIND

A Cyclone Sweeps Over a Portion of Missouri.

A DOZEN OR MORE LIVES ARE LOST.

Many Persons Wounded - Houses and Barns Crushed to Pieces, Trees Uprooted and Live Stock Killed - Storms Elsewhere.

FOUND MANY VICTIMS.

MEXICO, Mo., May 21.—A terrible tornado passed 3 miles northeast of this place at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, in the vicinity of Bean creek. So far as heard from fifteen houses in the vicinity of that place were destroyed, about ten or twelve persons killed, an equal number fatally injured and large numbers badly hurt.

At the house of a farmer named Duffy John Doerger and family were living. John Doerger, aged 16, was killed outright. Lizzie Doerger was fatally hurt and died in a few minutes. Her skull was crushed and a large piece of timber penetrated her side. Mrs. Doerger was crushed to death by falling timbers and Mr. Doerger was fatally injured. The house was entirely swept away. Nothing has been heard of Mr. Duffy, and it is supposed that his body was carried away by the cyclone. The Duffy barn was blown down and two horses were killed.

At the house of William Stranberg William Yostranger and family were visiting. The house was swept bodily away. William Yostranger was killed, his wife was badly injured and his little girl was fatally hurt. William Stranberg was also fatally injured.

At the house of Ed. N. Gertrude Fletcher, a daughter of R. S. Fletcher, was instantly killed. E. B. Norris was fatally injured. Caleb Norris was badly hurt and his wife seriously so. Willie Fletcher and his sister Kate were instantly killed and their bodies terribly mangled. At the same place Mrs. Emily Seal, widow, aged 60 years, was fatally hurt and Mrs. Norris, the mother of E. B. Norris, was killed. F. S. Norris was badly hurt.

The house of Valentine Erdle caught fire during the first gale and was completely destroyed. The inmates had vacated the house and nobody was hurt. The house of T. B. Hall was blown down, but the family escaped. A horse standing in the road at that place was picked up by the wind, carried half a mile and dashed to the earth. Thomas Werkmann's house was swept away. The house of Boston Kunkle was swept away. Mr. Kunkle was picked up and thrown against a wagon and instantly killed. His orchard was rooted completely up and the trees carried several hundred yards and scattered over the country. A farmer by the name of Rogers was killed and several others whose names could not be learned. Pigeons, chickens, doves, and turkeys were blown down. A cat was killed in the harvest time. As a farmer named Crane was caught in the storm in his wagon and literally torn to pieces.

Joseph Kendall's house and barn were blown down and Kendall killed. He had just left the house and gone to the barn as the barn was lifted up. The barn was scattered all over the fields. James Dillard's house was blown down, and a mowing machine was carried about 100 yards and literally torn to shreds. A large iron roller weighing 1,000 pounds was taken up and broken to pieces. A cat was taken up and carried over a quarter of a mile. Several horses were killed outright. Twenty-five chickens were plucked clean of feathers, and the spokes of wagon wheels were twisted and broken.

The cyclone passed on to the east. Rush Hill, 1 mile north, carrying destruction everywhere. There is no doubt that great destruction of property and life has occurred further east. Great trees were taken up by the roots and broken off. The width of the cyclone was about 200 yards, and so far as heard from about 12 miles long. The loss will be over $50,000.

STORMS ELSEWHERE.

CENTRALIA, Mo., May 21.—A funnel-shaped cyclone one-half mile wide passed a mile north of this place Wednesday. Fifteen or twenty dwellings were totally destroyed by it and many persons were injured, some fatally. Barns and fences were swept away, chickens, hogs and stock killed in large numbers and a number of large trees torn up by the roots.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., May 21.—At 2 p. m. Wednesday a cyclone wrecked the telegraph lines of the Chicago & Alton and also those of the Wash. & Cent. Mo., at 4:30 p. m. another cyclone swept across the Chicago & Alton at Laddonia, again completely cutting off communication. At both points great damage was done to houses, barns and trees, and at Laddonia at least many people were injured and some are reported killed. Owing to prostration the wire further particulars are not obtainable here.

BENTON, Ill., May 21.—A hail and windstorm passed over this place Wednesday afternoon, doing thousands of dollars' worth of damage. The hail was the heaviest ever known here. It was reported to be the size of a pea and strawberry crops which a few hours ago were worth thousands of dollars, are utterly ruined. Peaches will yield one-third of a crop and the apples are one-half destroyed. Other crops are badly damaged, but to what extent cannot be told as yet. If the damage is as heavy in the surrounding country as near this place the loss to this county alone will reach $500,000.

CROSTON, Ia., May 21.—A small cyclone passed from west to east about 4 miles south of this city Wednesday morning, unroofing houses and barns and destroying shade trees and fences. Many unroofed buildings were flooded with water during the heavy rainstorm that followed, but no fatalities have been reported.

JAWS OF VARIOUS BEASTS.

How Nature Enables the Animal World to Live and Enjoy Existence.

"Jaws are funny things. The crocodile's lower jaw is not socketed in the skull, as is the case with other animals, but the skull is socketed in the jaw, so that the animal can lift the upper part of its head as upon a hinge, and so capture whatever prey may be at hand without going to the trouble of getting upon its legs. This is a great saving of exertion to the saurian, which delights in wooing soft repose upon the voluptuous and buxom mud bank. It was Herodotus, the father of history, who first commented in recorded writing upon this surprising circumstance respecting the crocodile."

So Osteologist Lucas, of the Smithsonian Institution, was saying to a Star writer, and he added: "You can find another example of nature's adaptation of the jaw to use in the case of certain carnivores, like the otter—a big weasel that has acquired a habit of attacking seals. The jaws of such beasts are so fixed in the sockets that dislocation is impossible. In some instances you cannot, even after the animal is dead, separate the jaw from the head. This arrangement is evidently designed to enable the beast to bite to the greatest advantage without danger that the chewing apparatus will come loose."

The elephant's jaw, on the other hand, not being intended for biting but for grinding vegetable food, is an appendage almost separate from the rest of the skull. Although enormously heavy it has only a small articulation connecting it with the upper skull, and its socket is carried by the molars, in which it may be said to be slung, so that it can grind back and forth. A snake's lower jaw is attached to a sort of outrigger extending back from its skull. Also the two halves of the jaw are connected by elastic ligaments, so that it finds no difficulty in so stretching it as to swallow animals much bigger than itself. Some deep-sea fishes are similarly rigged. The human jaw is very loosely socketed in the skull, so that it is often dislocated by the mere act of yawning. Not being intended for biting purposes, offensive or defensive, no attention seems to have been paid by nature to making it fast. While we are speaking on this subject I may as well show you this little stuffed fish, which has no more popular name than 'autumnarius.' It angles for smaller fishes with this appendage on top of its head, which is designed to imitate a worm. The fish keeps its imitation worm wriggling just above its mouth, and when a victim comes within reach it is gobbled promptly, the jaw of the angler being set vertically instead of horizontally, so that it can receive the game by simply opening at the top, a gentle suction assisting the performance."—Washington Star.

RECKONING TIME.

How It Is Done at the Observatory at Washington.

The observatory does not reckon its time by the sun, but by the so-called "fixed" stars, which are so far off that their position with relation to the earth does not change appreciably within a few months or years. Star time is the only true time, therefore. The operator looks through a big telescope and watches for a given star that he knows to cross the plane of the meridian. As it crosses he records what moment it does, as shown by a star clock with a twenty-four hour dial. Then he consults a printed table that shows him at just what number of hours, minutes and seconds the star in question must actually have crossed the meridian plane.

The table is right, and by as much as the star time clock differs from it, the latter is wrong. No attempt is made to set the star clock right, allowance being simply made in subsequent calculation for the error thus discovered, which amounts only to a fraction of a second in some days. Next the corrected time, as taken from the star clock, is reduced to sun time, which requires some figuring, inasmuch as the star year is one day longer than the sun year. A sun time or "standard" time clock stands close by, and the amount that this varies from the truth having been ascertained, allowance is made for the error in setting the noon stroke all over the country.

At the observatory all the chronometers made for the navy are tested and regulated before they are sent on vessels, each one of which is supplied with three first-class chronometers, as well as one that is half used up, called a "hack," for carrying about and for rough service generally. It takes twenty-one weeks of testing to properly regulate and prove a chronometer, and part of the trial consists in subjecting the instrument to the action of cold in an ice box and to heat communicated through steam pipes. Each chronometer when given out is accompanied by a chart telling just how it will vary under normal temperature. A curious exhibit now shown at the observatory includes eight chronometers that went down in the great gale that swamped a fair part of Uncle Sam's navy at Samoa. Their glasses are broken and their works so far used up that they are no good any longer.—N. Y. Telegram.

Changing Defect to Victory.

The genius of Sheridan at Winchester changed defeat to victory. So when feeble adversaries in the shape of inefficient remedies fail to stay the progress of that obstinate and malignant foe, Maria, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters turns the tide—drives the enemy back. Nothing in materia medica, or out of it, compares with this as an opponent of every form of malarial disease. Chills and fever, dumb ague, bilious remittent and ague cake—it matters not—one and all are extirpated by the Bitters. To take a course of the great preparative in advance of the malarial season, is to buckle on, as it were, an armor of proof which defies attack. So fortified, so protected, you shall be successful. Remember, too, that the Bitters is an eradicator of liver complaint, constipation, rheumatism, kidney complaints and dyspepsia.

Natalie's Expulsion from Belgrade Causes Great Disquietude.

THE SITUATION IN SERBIA CRITICAL.

Popular Feeling Said to Have Caused the War Minister to Resign—The Ex-Queen Receives Many Assurances of Sympathy.

SAILING DOWN THE DANUBE.

LONDON, May 21.—The Belgrade incident, resulting in the expulsion of Queen Natalie, has disquieted European markets generally. Advices from Vienna say the situation in Serbia is critical. Disturbing news comes also from the Bulgarian frontier. The position of affairs there has not been more alarming at any time since 1885. There is great activity in military circles.

LONDON, May 21.—Vienna dispatches say that the Belgrade police forced Natalie's residence without warning, brutally seized her and thrust her into a carriage. She told them to tell the ministers that this shameful deed would be an indelible blot on the government and the country, and that such deeds avenged themselves. She also said that the ministers would have to do penance for their acts before God and the nation. It is reported that the young king, King Peter, when his mother was so rudely forced to leave the country.

VIENNA, May 21.—Ex-Queen Natalie is now steaming down the Danube. She is ostensibly going to Jassy, in Rumania, to take the train for Bucharest, but she may land at some point on the way down the Danube. The latest dispatches from Belgrade say that the popular feeling against Minister of War Miletic on account of his persecution of Natalie became so great that he has resigned. Col. Preproctovics has been appointed minister of war.

BUENOS AIRES, May 21.—Dispatches from Semlin, Hungary, where Queen Natalie stopped Tuesday after being expelled from Serbian territory, say that great crowds of people are gathered in the streets adjacent to the hotel at which the ex-queen is stopping awaiting an opportunity to see her and make a demonstration of their sympathy with her. Many of the leading ladies of the fashionable circle of Semlin visited Natalie at her hotel Tuesday night and presented her with bouquets. They welcomed her to Hungary and expressed their sympathy with her in her most recent troubles.

The World's Fair Appropriation Bill Discussed in the Senate—Many Measures Pass the House.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 21.—The world's fair bill, with its $1,000,000 clause was the special order in the senate on second reading. A long debate ensued on Senator Shumway's amendment to reduce the appropriation from $1,000,000 to $600,000. The amendment was lost by a vote of 30 to 21. The vote was then reconsidered in the interest of the eight-hour amendment, which was passed, and the senate adjourned, leaving the bill in the same position as when the senate convened.

The house passed seven senate bills as fast as the clerk could call the roll. Among them were the following: Repealing the Merritt conspiracy laws; compelling railroads to use an interlocking switch device at drawbridges; authorizing towns organized under special charter to divide their territory into wards and wards into wards; ceding to the United States exclusive jurisdiction over certain structures and lands in Rock Island in order to enable the government to construct viaducts over dangerous railroad crossings. Gov. Fifer announced the appointment of John H. Ames, of St. Louis, Louis Hunt, of Cook, and Clarence E. Snively, of Fulton, as canal commissioners to succeed themselves.

Janesville May Suffer by a Curtailing of the Gas Fund.

THE CITY BILL WAS SIDE-TRACKED.

Instead of $7,500, the Lighting Appropriation Is $5,000.

THE FUND NOW $1,200 IN DEBT.

An Oversight at Madison Causes Aldermen Much Perplexity and Is Likely to Bring About a Season of Retrenchment—Mr. Winans Surprised.

Alderman M. Childs, chairman of the gas light committee of the common council, is stirred up over lighting the streets. The expense of lighting the city has increased from year to year until now it exceeds the limit of the fund from twelve to fifteen hundred dollars. The council asked the legislature to increase this fund from five thousand to seven thousand five hundred dollars. There was no opposition to this, and it was confidently expected the amendment would be passed, and the council went to work planning to light the city in first class shape. The clerk was directed to advertise for bids to light the whole city, either with gas or with electric light. His advertisements are now in the daily papers, and now comes word that the amendment did not pass, and the light fund is bankrupt, being some twelve hundred dollars in debt.

Yesterday City Clerk Bates received a certified copy of the charter amendments from the secretary of state, and the city authorities were surprised to find the gas bill fund omitted.

Alderman Childs was standing on one of Charles Wilcox's improved Dodge street sidewalks today when he was asked by a reporter what the council would do in relation to lighting the streets?

"What can we do?" he exclaimed. "The gas fund is now overdrawn, and I understand it costs some six thousand five hundred dollars to run the lamps as now located, which includes the oil and electric lamps. We will only have about three thousand five hundred dollars to light the city this year."

We will be compelled to shut off somewhere, and yet our lamps should be lighted all night. If we have electric lights too, they must be of more candle power, two thousand candles at least. That is the reason I had the power clause put in the advertisement for bids. I think an electric light every three or four blocks would light our streets very well. I shall get the committee together before the next meeting of the council, and have the light question considered so that we can bring the matter before the council in proper shape, but I am afraid we will be bothered before we get through. It would not be so bad if the fund had not been overdrawn."

Mr. Winans when questioned was sure the amendment had passed the legislature, and was surprised that it was not included in the certified bill.

"There must be an oversight somewhere," he declared. "I am positive that the clause passed, and if it does not appear in the bill sent down there has been a clerical error."

"Fred Burpee was clerk of the assembly judiciary committee and says the gas amendment must have been erased when the bill was amended, as the amendments were made on a printed bill by erasures and interlinings."

Alderman Childs thinks the council will receive bids as advertised. "If the gas company will furnish gas cheap enough so we can properly light the streets, I shall favor it," he said. "Yet I think we ought to be able to light our whole city with one hundred two thousand candle power electric lights; I wouldn't have lights of less power in the streets."

CHAT ABOUT TOWN.

"I don't want to be published as a chronic kicker," remarked ex-Alderman C. B. Conrad this morning. "But I would like to make a little suggestion for the better ornamentation of our display fountains. If the park committee would put in a half dozen incandescent electric lights in the basin of each fountain, having different colored globes, it would add greatly to the beauty of the fountains in the night."

"Yes," exclaimed Fred L. Clemons, who recently read a paper on municipal economy before the Fortnightly Club. "Why didn't the common council think of that when they passed the franchise ordinance. The city is continually giving away valuable franchises and get no returns. Here the electric light company get the free use of our highways for nothing. They obstruct to some extent the use of our streets. It is necessary, but the city should get some pecuniary benefit from it. The city ought to demand these fancy lights for the fountains. It would not be asking much of those owning the franchise, especially when the company takes into consideration the privileges it secures from the city."

"I would go further, and demand that the telephone company place a telephone in each of the school buildings in the city, as compensation for the benefits that company receives from the city. It is all wrong to throw our rights so precipitously. They are worth something, if they were not these corporations would not be asking for them." Before leaving the group of enthusiasts the reporter was convinced that both propositions were proper, and ought to be insisted upon by the common council.

HELL IS A COMFORT.

Mr. Mills Pictures the Unsaved Soul in Heaven

WOULD BE A PLACE OF TORMENT.

The Evangelist Preaches a Sermon Especially to Men, and Is Greeted by a Large Congregation—Is It Nothing to You?" His Text.

HELL IS A COMFORT.

The influence of the mid-week Sunday that was so generally observed yesterday, was apparent in the meeting last evening. Before the bell stopped ringing every seat in the spacious church was occupied and a careful survey of the audience indicated that earnest attention, had succeeded the curiosity seekers.

"Is it nothing to you," a fragment of a verse from the book of lamentations, was the text from which Mr. Mills preached one of the most effective sermons of the week.

He addressed men speaking to their judgment and common sense, and pressed the question home.

"Is it nothing to you that you are unconcerned about your soul's salvation?" he urged. "They say that a revival meeting is good enough for women and children. Did you ever reflect that women and children will come into the kingdom at almost any time, but very few men ever make a start except at a time of special awakening. I would like to know how many men there are in this great audience who gave their hearts to God at a time when there was no special work being done? Just stand up."

The speaker waited a moment. One solitary man stood up.

"That is the experience everywhere," said Mr. Mills.

"I tell you, my brethren that there is less than one chance in a hundred for you unless you accept the offer of mercy at a time like this; and while I would not stir your emotions, or be accused of working on your feelings, I must remind you that this may be your last opportunity. There is good deal said now, 'days about probation after death. Why, my friend, I believe that with many people probation ends long before death.'

"What more can God or the church do for you than has already been done? The voice that tells you to wait until some more convenient season, is the voice of the devil. He will keep you waiting until you lose all inclination to accept of mercy."

"You think that God is so good that whatever your life may be, that heaven will be your eternal home. Did it ever occur to you that heaven would be a place of torment to you. I believe that hell is a merciful provision for unsaved souls. If you have no desire to love and serve God here, how can you expect peace and joy in His presence throughout the long eternities. The question I ask you to-night is not, 'Is it much to you?' but simply 'is anything to you?'"

During the sermon many apt illustrations were used and at the close many expressed a desire to lead a better life.

Mr. Mills will speak this evening on probation in this life or the danger of procrastination. His meetings will close Sunday evening and he leaves the city early Monday morning. To-day's meeting was well attended and of unusual interest.

Mrs. Sarah Clough died at an early hour this morning, of heart disease. She had been in poor health for some time, having been attacked with the grip a year ago, and never fully recovered. Fish Charming.

One of the best fish stories told since the opening of the trout season is now going through the corridors of the leading hotels. It comes from Thomas Canary, the theatrical manager, and is being vouched for by Louis Robie. Mr. Canary spent the winter at St. Augustine, Fla., and returned to the city the other day. While in the south the genial Thomas took daily strolls along the beach to get an appetite for dinner.

One day he noticed a little colored boy lying upon his stomach along the bank of the river, with his eyes fixed upon the water. He watched the little fellow for fully fifteen minutes, but a muscle of his body moved. A few minutes later he saw the boy make a plunge toward the surface of the water, and when he appeared again he held in his hand a good sized trout.

Tom thought that this was such an unusual thing that he offered the boy five cents for every trout he caught that afternoon. Thomas sat on the beach and watched the operation. The boy caught the trout so fast that Tom, fearing that he would be bankrupted, compromised with the lad. He declares that his curiosity was pretty expensive.

It is rather a common thing to see trout charming along the banks of the southern waters. The temperature is so mild and the water so clear that one can walk along the beach and see the fish jump almost a foot above the surface of the water.—New York Telegram.
